METHODOLOGY

Context and Objectives

Context

Clean Prosperity works at federal and provincial level to find climate change solutions that are innovative, support economic growth and generate new economic opportunity. Through this project, Clean Prosperity team wants to understand the opinion of Greater Toronto Area residents on climate change issues, carbon tax and policies to address carbon pollution.

Objectives

Through this research, Clean prosperity team wants to understand:

- The importance of climate change for GTA '905' area voters
- Impact of Carbon tax as an issue in deciding Federal election ballot
- Impressions of the Ontario provincial government's position toward the federal carbon tax

Methodology

Study Population

- Greater Toronto Area (Area '905') resident, aged 18 and older.

Data Collection

- A total of n=1001 online surveys were conducted via Leger's online panel, LEO.
- Interviews were conducted from August 21 to August 27, 2020.

Statistical Analysis

- As a non-probability internet survey, a margin of error is technically not to be reported.
- If the data were collected through a random sample, the margin of error would be Greater Toronto Area residents (n=1001)  $\pm 3.1\%$ , 19 times out of 20.
- Quotas were set to ensure survey completions were properly distributed across the EDAs in the region.
- Using data from the 2016 Census, results were weighted according to age, gender and region in order to ensure a representative sample of the population.
- The numbers presented have been rounded to the nearest whole number. However, raw values were used to calculate the sums presented and therefore may not correspond to the manual addition of these numbers.

Climate change issues

However, climate change continues to worry 76% of GTA residents. 80% accessible voters worry about climate change impacts on them.

Climate change concerns

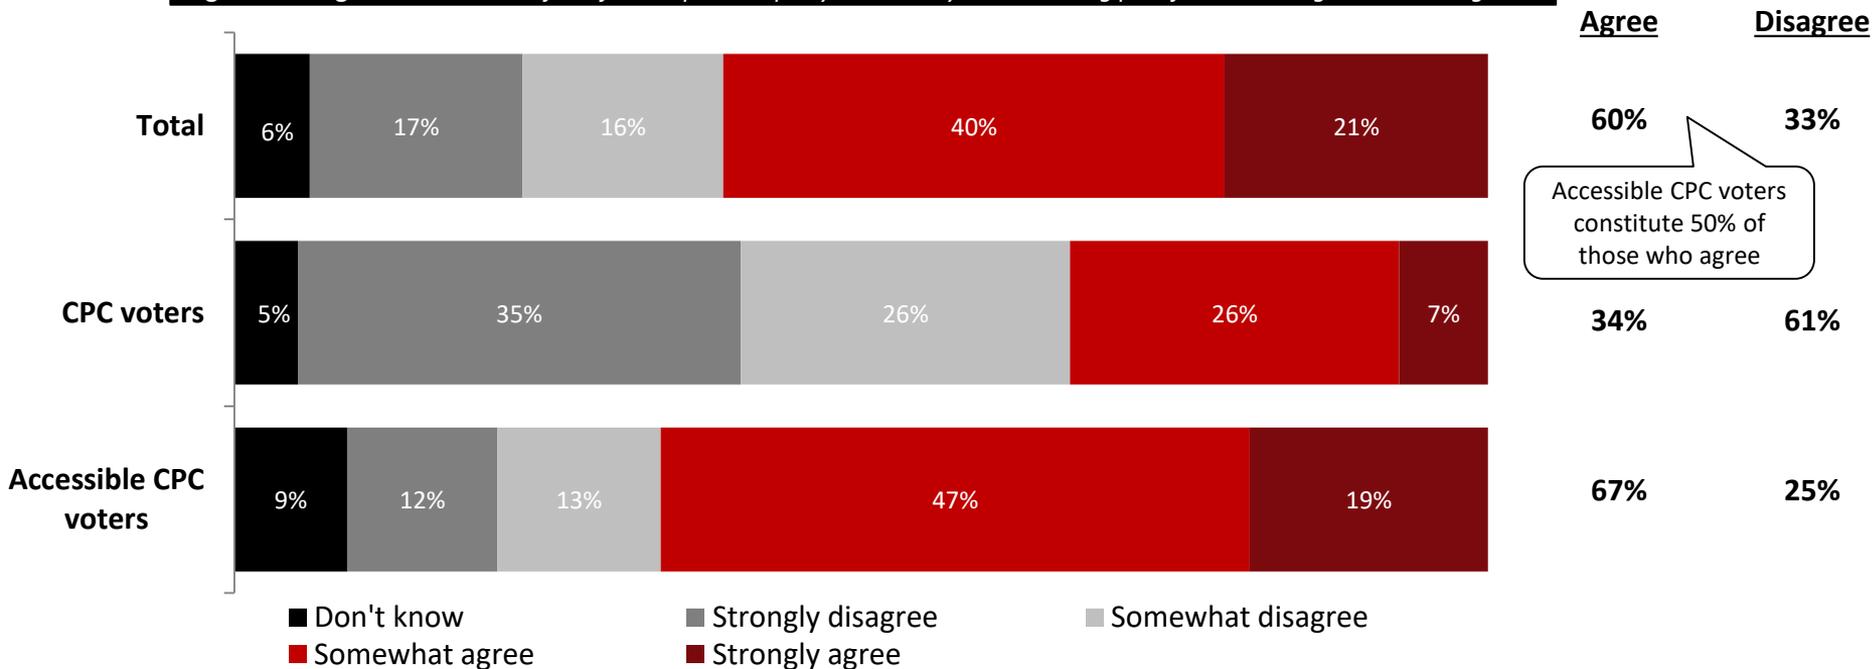

73% of GTA residents were worried about impact of climate change on them and their families in January 2020 (January 2020 wave)

Almost 60% choose federal party based on party's strong climate change plans, half of these are conservative Party accessible voters

Agree/Disagree

Agree or disagree: I cannot vote for a federal political party unless they have a strong plan for addressing climate change.

61% of GTA residents said they were worried about impact of climate change on them and their families in January 2020

Q10: Do you agree or disagree with the following statement: I cannot vote for a federal political party unless they have a strong plan for addressing climate change. Base: Greater Toronto Area Residents (n=1001)

Half of Area 905 residents, especially accessible CPC voters, support charging for carbon pollution

Information on screen: A common approach to address climate change is to charge for carbon pollution, which creates a financial incentive to generate less carbon pollution. Under this policy, people would pay more for activities that create pollution. For example, they would pay more per litre at the gas station, and pay more per unit of natural gas used for home heating. Companies that produce carbon pollution would also pay more.

Q13A: Do you support or oppose this type of policy as a way to address climate change?

Base : Greater Toronto Area Residents (n=1001)

Adopting the policy won't affect likelihood to vote CPC drastically, about a quarter 'accessible voters' would be more likely to vote

Q13B: If the Conservative Party of Canada were to adopt this policy of charging for carbon pollution, would it make you more likely to vote for them in an election, less likely or not change your likelihood of voting Conservative?

Base : Greater Toronto Area Residents , CPC and accessible CPC voters (n=729)

GTA residents have mixed opinions about the current carbon tax policy in Ontario, more than half of accessible voters support current policy

Information on screen: The system of charging for carbon pollution that is currently active in Ontario is commonly referred to as a carbon tax. This year, it added 7 cents to the price of gasoline and increased costs for home heating by an average of $12 per month. The average Ontario household also received $448 back in rebates from this carbon tax. The carbon tax and the carbon rebate will both rise each year until 2022. In that year, the tax will add $12 cents / liter in gasoline and will return $700 in rebates to the average Ontario household.

Q13C: Do you support or oppose this policy?

Base : Greater Toronto Area Residents (n=1001)

Over half of residents support the policy of using pollution charges to get tax cuts, no major effect on likelihood to vote CPC

Opinion on Policy: Where the proceeds from charging for carbon pollution are used to cut personal income tax rates
